RESILIENCE!

2020 ANNUAL REPORT

Christel House®

A Letter from Bart

A year like no other

Dear Friends,

I hope you are well as we continue to navigate these difficult days. Not surprisingly, our Christel House students and their families have been significantly affected during this unprecedented time of upheaval. But our kids, teachers and staff have demonstrated resilience.

We know the closure of our schools is extraordinarily impactful on our communities due to the services we provide – from education and daily nutrition to health care and social services. But within hours of lockdowns, our schools went into action – organizing and distributing food and other critical resources to our Christel House families. It continues today.

With the need for remote learning, the COVID-19 crisis exacerbated the longstanding “digital divide” our kids face. But with leadership from the Christel House International Board of Directors and the Christel House Indianapolis Board, an urgent initiative to expand our technology resources was launched. With your support, we kept our Christel House students learning, providing devices and data for kids to learn from home.

On June 6 we lost our friend, our inspiration, our Founder, Christel DeHaan. While there is immense sadness in her passing, we know she would be proud of the resilience demonstrated by the children, teachers, and staff of the organization she loved and cherished.

Christel’s legacy will continue. Christel House gives kids who need the most help the best chance. All of us thank you for your generous support.

Best,

Bart Peterson, President and CEO

A tribute to our Founder

Christel DeHaan

1942 - 2020

Christel DeHaan's life epitomized the American Dream. Her passion for life, for causes, for people and for the arts and nature was underscored by a deep commitment to excellence in all that she did. Christel made a difference as a business leader, as a community leader and as a philanthropist.

After a remarkable career in business as the co-founder of Resort Condominiums International (RCI), Christel created Christel House in 1998 with the goal of transforming the lives of impoverished children around the globe.

Now serving nearly 6,000 students and graduates worldwide through schools in India, Jamaica, Mexico, South Africa and the United States, Christel House was created to address the root causes of poverty through a holistic human development model.

"To care, to share,
to make a difference."
- Christel DeHaan

Thanks to Christel's careful planning, the work of Christel House will continue to be supported through her estate. It was her wish that all Christel House general and administrative expenses be covered in perpetuity. This allows all donor gifts to fund programs and services needed by Christel House students.

The pandemic has disproportionately affected families in under-resourced communities. Despite challenging circumstances as Christel House schools closed around the world, staff at each school showed resilience, taking action by organizing food deliveries to safely provide thousands of meals and other critical resources to students and their families.

The crisis left thousands of daily wage laborers in Bangalore and Atal Nagar unemployed and without access to food and other essentials. With donor assistance, Christel House India extended support to over 1,400 families every week.

Bridging the digital divide

Devices and data for remote learning

While Christel House kids have access to technology in the classroom, with the pandemic closing schools, students needed the tools to transition to e-learning. That meant purchasing hundreds of tablets, laptops and WIFI data packages to facilitate remote learning. With determined leadership from the Christel House International Board of Directors and Christel House Indianapolis board members, a technology fund was launched. Supporters responded, keeping Christel House kids learning from home.

“Having access to a tablet at home is such a privilege for me.”

Our Heroes

Teachers turn adversity into lessons on resilience for kids

#Hashtags connect teachers to students

During the earliest days of the pandemic, Christel House Mexico recognized the abrupt closing of school could cause uncertainty and make children feel isolated. Teachers reached out, letting students know they were not alone. They created social media hashtags to connect. "One was #StayAtHome and the other was #IAmChristelHouseFamily," says Executive Director Javier Alarcón Benet. Students responded, sharing photos from home. "We are working as a family," says Javier of the student/teacher connection during the crisis. "It's a big community of solidarity."

"If the children cannot come to school, we will take the school to the children."

- Christel House India third grade teacher Sathi Menon

Teachers at Christel House India are going above and beyond to ensure students' emotional and academic success. Schools have remained closed. The India team brainstormed to create and deliver homework packets to younger students. Teachers then follow-up via phone to assess how kids are doing and to lift their spirits. During the lockdown, some children have experienced deep personal trauma. When a student lost her father in an accident, she and her mother received support from Christel House counselors. "It gives the children a sense of security to know teachers are only a call away," Menon says of the contact with each student. "It takes time. But we don't mind putting in those extra hours as we know it benefits the children."

Safely adapting to in-person classes

With stringent safety measures in place, Christel House South Africa welcomed back some students to the school in June. The entire facility was sanitized before kids arrived. The first lesson for students was an introduction on new school safety and social distancing rules.

Technical training or college, graduates find success

Five Christel House Mexico graduates were accepted to UNAM, the #1 ranked university in Mexico—a record number for the school. Another eight students were admitted to IPN, the best public university to study engineering. Luis Serrano, College & Careers Coordinator, is impressed with the entire Christel House Mexico class of 2020 for overcoming pandemic obstacles. "For me, this class is like those Greek heroes who succeed after a long journey filled with trials," he says proudly.

(Below) The Christel House India Class of 2020 scored a remarkable 96.2% pass rate on the PUC (Pre-University Course) board exams! "These are fantastic results," says Jaison C. Mathew, CEO of Christel House India.

Now the 2020 graduate is enjoying a new career – as a welder! "I love every moment of it," she says. Students attending Christel House DORS are strongly encouraged to continue their education after earning their diploma. Marisol chose the vocational route. "The experience I had at DORS was amazing."

Angelique Blaauw-Chiropa, 2009 Christel House South Africa graduate, grew up in a community overrun with poverty and violence. She says Christel House changed her life. Angelique was the first in her family to complete school. With support from the College & Careers program, she attended business school. Now working as a Senior Accounting Clerk, she and her husband have purchased a home. "No one else in my family has ever owned their own house. It's a milestone to celebrate for me!"

Christel House

Welcome to Jamaica

Newest school opens despite pandemic, tropical storm

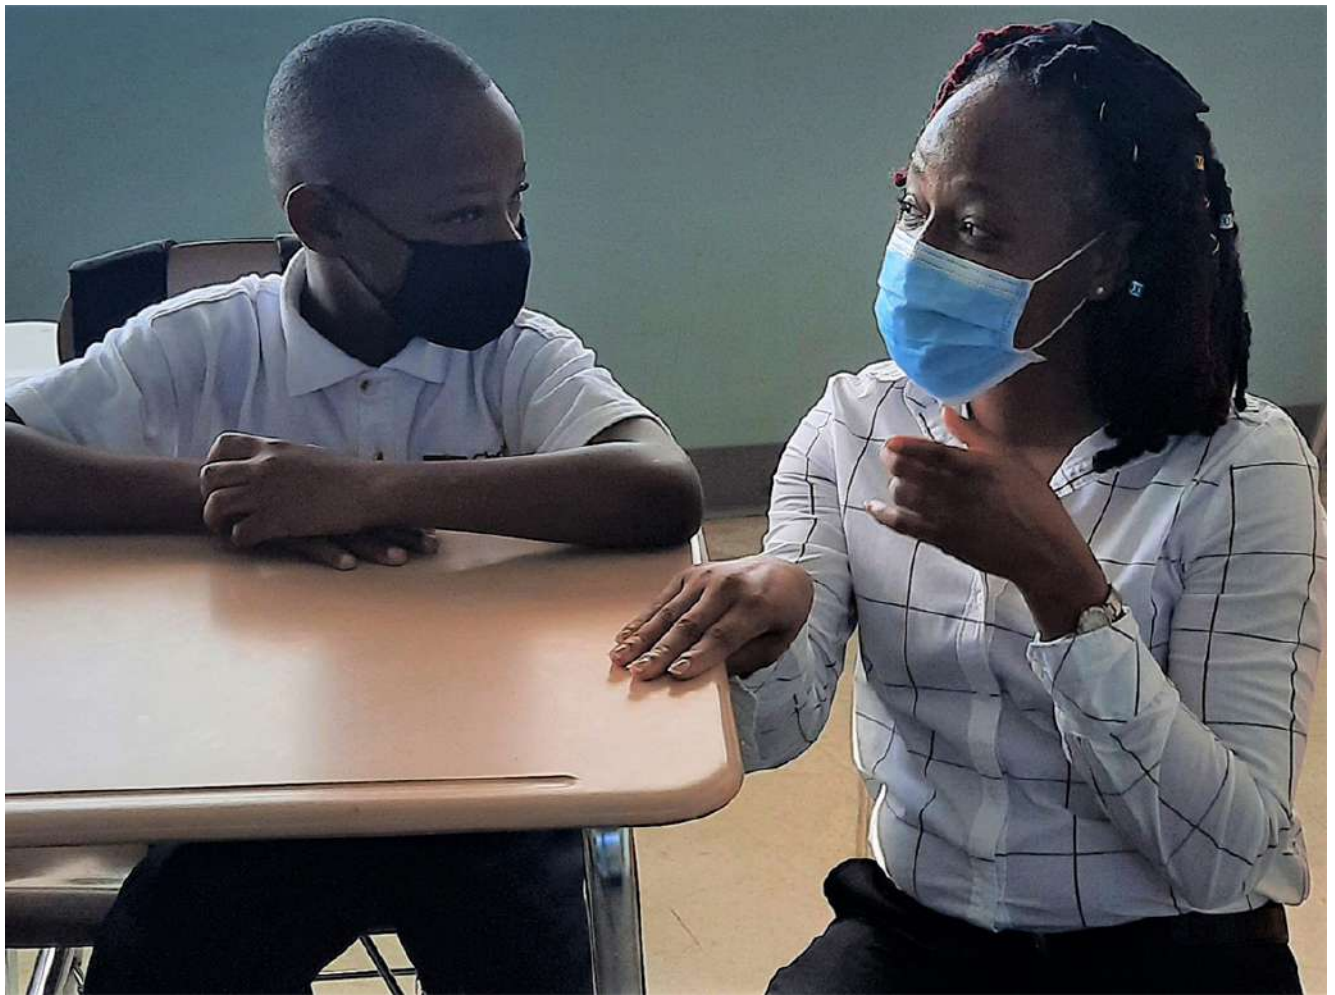

Christel House's newest school, Christel House Jamaica, opened with students in kindergarten to Grade 2. Each year going forward an additional 60 kindergarten students will be admitted. When the Ministry of Health approved Christel House to receive students for in-person classes, a tropical storm warning and days of torrential rain caused flooding on the island, forcing teachers and staff to adapt. "It was a very busy time for all," says the Hon. Sally Porteous, CEO of Christel House Jamaica. Following the weather emergency, the school finally opened for in-person learning with approved COVID-19 protocols. Marsha McPherson, Information Technology teacher, says the first months have been full of joy. "I believe Christel House Jamaica will have a tremendous impact on the students, their families and the wider community." McPherson knows the school will bring change. "Christel House represents a great example for future schools to follow and for current schools to emulate."
